

This Copyright Transfer Agreement enables AAN Enterprises, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of The American Academy of Neurology, (hereinafter called "AEI") to provide for the widest possible dissemination of the article through activities such as: retrievability and accessibility of information, delivery of information, individual article supply, production of microfilm editions, authorization and distribution of reprints, translation, authorization of abstracting and indexing services in print and database formats, and other forms of distribution for use of all or part of the article in electronic and other formats to be developed.

Transfer of the copyright also enables AEI to defend against plagiarism and other forms of copyright infringement. We request that you complete this form promptly, keeping a copy of it for your records. Your manuscript cannot be processed until we receive this form. Your cooperation is essential and appreciated.

DISCLAIMER: Each author warrants that this Work shall not violate any trademark registrations or the right of privacy of any person, contains no libelous, obscene, or other unlawful matter, and does not infringe upon the statutory or common law copyright or any other right of any person or party. If excerpts (text, figures, tables, or illustrations) from copyrighted works are included, a written release will be secured by the authors prior to submission, and credit to the original publication will be properly acknowledged. Each author further warrants that (i) he or she has obtained, prior to submission, valid written authorizations from all patients whose names, photographs or other protected health information are submitted as part of the Work and (ii) he or she shall maintain such authorizations and inform AEI in a timely manner of any revocation by a patient of such authorization.

Copyright of the article entitled: _____

Author(s): _____

The authors assign to AEI all right, title and interest they have in the copyrightable work described above, throughout the world and for the full term including all extensions and renewals.

The rights granted to AEI herein shall include all rights of copyright registration and publication, the right to create derivative works and all other rights incident to copyright ownership. However, the Author(s) reserve(s) the following: (a) trademark rights and patent rights, if any; and (b) the right to revise, adapt, prepare derivative works, present orally or distribute the work, provided that all such use is solely for the personal non-commercial benefit of the Author, or if the article is a "work-for-hire" and made within the scope of the Author's employment, the employer may use all or part of the information contained in this article for intra-company use, provided the usual acknowledgments are given regarding copyright notice and reference to the original publication.

AEI authorizes NIH-funded investigators to submit an electronic version of the final, accepted manuscript to the NIH for publication on PubMedCentral no earlier than twelve months after the print or online publication in Neurology. The authorization is a nonexclusive license only for the purpose stated in the NIH Public Access Policy (see 70 Federal Register 6899-6900 dated February 9, 2005); AEI reserves all rights not specifically granted in this nonexclusive license.

U.S. Government employees whose work is within public domain should complete the form, check the box below, and return the form unsigned. However, if any co-author is not a U.S. Government employee, it is not a U.S. Government work, and that co-author should be delegated by the other co-authors to sign this Agreement. If the work was not prepared as part of the employee's duties, it is not a U.S. Government work.

All authors of this article are government employees whose work falls within the public domain.

The Author warrants that he or she has full power to enter into this Agreement and to grant all rights transferred hereunder. The Author warrants that the article is the Author's original work, has not been published before, is not in the public domain and does not infringe upon any statutory copyright or upon any common law right, proprietary right, or any other right. If excerpts from copyrighted works are included, the Author will obtain permission from the copyright owners and shall credit sources in the article. The Author also warrants that the article contains no matter that is obscene, defamatory, in violation of any right of privacy, or otherwise contrary to law. The Author, or if applicable the employer, will indemnify and hold harmless AEI, its affiliates, and all of their respective officers, directors, employees and agents from any damages, costs, or losses (including attorneys' fees and costs of litigation) made by any claim, demand, lawsuit, or other proceedings in which it is alleged that the Author has violated the rights of others (including, without limitations, any right of privacy) or has made libelous or unlawful statements or violated any copyright, trademark, or other proprietary right.

If the article was prepared jointly with other Authors, the Author agrees to inform the co-Author(s) of the terms of this Copyright Transfer Agreement and to sign on their behalf, or in the case of a "work-for-hire" the employer or an authorized representative of the employer must sign.
